Unplug and reconnect with the family these school holidays

Sculpture at Scenic World will provide the perfect platform for families to put down the devices and reconnect with each other these Easter school holidays.

Now in its sixth year, Sculpture at Scenic World 2017 is a family friendly exhibition which showcases world class artworks in the natural Jurassic rainforest from April 7 to May 7.

Visitors can enjoy unlimited travel on the world's steepest railway, marvel over an array of artworks set amid lush green rainforest, and make the most of a full public program including kids workshops and free guided tours.

Scenic World's Marketing and Events Manager, Amanda Byrne, said the exhibition provided a unique opportunity for families to unplug from digital distractions and enjoy quality time together in a natural setting.

"Easter is a great time to reconnect with each other and create new memories as a family, away from the distractions of mobile phones and tablets," she said.

"From world class sculptures, incredible landscapes, and a public program that takes in the best of the Blue Mountains, Sculpture at Scenic World has something for everyone which sets the stage for a memorable autumn arts escape for the whole family."

Held over the Easter school holidays, Sculpture at Scenic World is free with entry to Scenic World and includes a public program including Sculpture Otherwise, an indoor exhibition at the Blue Mountains Cultural Centre, and Woodstock, an outdoor exhibition at iconic locations in the upper mountains.

Children can also take part in Sculpture for Small People workshops, and enjoy the kids arts trail which takes children on an interactive journey of the exhibition.

A range of exclusive accommodation packages are available during the exhibition, starting from just $249 per couple, and earlybird savings apply for entry before 10am.
